

OmniClass License Rev 2011-07-21

As expressed in the September 2000 Statement of Intent for Development of the Overall Construction Classification System, OmniClass is intended to be an open standard, freely available to all. Although the system is free to acquire and use, there are some conditions of its use, designed to protect the efforts that have gone into OmniClass development and its integrity and uniformity as a standard. The Construction Specifications Institute (CSI) (hereinafter "The Secretariat" "the Secretariat for the OmniClass Development Committee" or "The OmniClass Secretariat") in its role as Secretariat for the OmniClass Development Committee will retain and enforce the copyright on the OmniClass in regards to these limits on licensure.

By using, copying, and/or implementing all or any part of OmniClass, you (the licensee) agree that you have read, understood, and will comply with the following Terms and Conditions:

- 1) Intellectual property rights are held for the OmniClass Development Committee by the Secretariat; all rights are reserved. Implementation or use of OmniClass does not imply any transfer of any intellectual property rights to the licensee.
- 2) Permission to use, copy, implement, or distribute the contents of OmniClass in any medium for any purpose and without fee or royalty is hereby granted, within the following restrictions:
  - a) OmniClass numbers and titles must be presented without deviation (excepting formatting changes or inclusion or exclusion of spaces from numbers) from their presentation in the OmniClass tables. The licensee will not present OmniClass numbers and titles in a way that implies or suggests that they reflect the content of any other classification system. The OmniClass Development Committee may grant specific and limited licenses for modifications or alterations on an individual basis. Visit the OmniClass website (<http://www.omniclass.org/>) for email addresses and other contact information.
  - c) OmniClass can be used or implemented for nonprofit (research and development or personal) or commercial uses. Within the context of these license terms, commercial uses or purposes are defined as any presentation (including online and educational presentations) or sale of a product or service using the OmniClass numbers and titles, or the application of the OmniClass numbers and titles in a product based on or using OmniClass, for the purpose of generating revenue for a profit.
  - d) OmniClass itself may not be resold by any user in any form without explicit licensure to do so from the Secretariat.
